Industry Specification Chains

Diamond Chain is a premium manufacturer

Roller chains used in the oil and gas industries are subjected to great loads and harsh environments. These conditions are far more severe than usually found in more common industrial applications.

Oil and gas field chains can be either single or multiple strands and are typically constructed using heavy series components.

Diamond Chain produce their oil field chains with the same attention to detail that goes into all their products, but also subject the chains for the oil and gas industry to performance testing in accordance with the American Petroleum Institute (API) Specification 7F.

Users of the Diamond Chains supplied by Black Gold can be certain they are receiving the highest quality, best performing roller chains examining the label on the box, which displays the API logo. Only those companies that have established quality systems, approved and routinely audited, are authorized to display this symbol.

Performance at a Balanced Price

Black Gold offer premium at a valued price

We choose our suppliers such as Diamond Chain for their commitment to the market in producing a premium product with the best balance of performance, reliability, price and delivery. All of these values you get when you source your chains from Black Gold.
